TRAVEL HEALTH INFORMATION FOR VOLUNTEERS TRAVELING TO KENYA

As you plan your trip to Kenya, it's essential to consider your health and safety. Visit the Center for Disease Control website for up-to-date requirements (www.cdc.gov) , <https://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/destinations/traveler/none/kenya> and/or speak with a local travel doctor regarding vaccinations.

Recommendations for Kenya include:

Covid-19

Hepatitis A & B

Polio

Typhoid

Yellow Fever (proof of vaccination may be required)

Anti-Malarial Medication/ Malaria Prevention:

Kenya is a malaria-endemic region. We strongly recommend taking anti-malarial medication as prescribed by your doctor. Use mosquito repellent, wear long sleeves and pants in the evening, and sleep under a mosquito net.

General Health Precautions:

- Water: Drink only bottled or purified water and avoid ice in drinks unless you are certain it's from purified water.
- Food: Eat only well-cooked food and avoid street food
- Personal Hygiene: Carry hand sanitizer and use it frequently.

Travel Insurance:

Consider purchasing comprehensive travel insurance that includes coverage for medical emergencies, evacuation, and trip cancellations.

NB: We strongly advise you to speak with your personal doctor about the recommended vaccinations and any specific medications, such as antibiotics, you might need during your trip. Your doctor can provide tailored advice based on your health history and travel plans.
